The eligibility criteria encompass certifications such as ISO (International Organization for Standardization), HACCP (Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points), BIS (Bureau of Indian Standards), WHO-GMP (World Health Organization - Good Manufacturing Practices), ZED (Zero Defect Zero Effect), TS (Technical Specifications), COPC (Customer Operations Performance Center), eSCM (eSourcing Capability Model), and Hallmark. Additionally, any other certificates recognized by the Government are included. Could you elaborate on the maximum reimbursement limit and the conditions associated with availing benefits under this scheme?

The maximum reimbursement limit under this scheme is capped at â¬ 5,00,000 per unit. However, it's essential to note that the benefits are subject to budgetary allocation. In the event of the allocation being exceeded, no Promissory Estoppel shall be applicable if the benefits are discontinued. What is the frequency at which the incentive for reimbursement of industry-standard quality certification can be claimed, and are there any restrictions on the number of certifications that can be covered in a single claim?

The incentive for reimbursement of industry-standard quality certification may be claimed only once during the policy period. However, it is applicable for any number of certifications acquired in that period. Could you provide detailed insights into the documentation required for availing benefits under this scheme?

To avail benefits, the required documentation includes a copy of the Incorporation Certificate, new unit registration document/certificate, PAN, Aadhaar, and GST TIN copies, Memorandum and Articles of Association, the first bill indicating the date of commencement of operations, copies of Quality Certificates being claimed, and bills/invoices/receipts or other proofs of payment for all expenses related to obtaining the certification. Additionally, Udyog Aadhaar is a mandatory document. How is the relevance of the certificates assessed for eligibility, and are there provisions for including new certifications not explicitly mentioned in the eligibility criteria?

The eligibility is determined based on the recognition of certificates listed in the criteria. However, the provision "Any other certificates as recognized by the Government" allows for flexibility to include new certifications not explicitly mentioned, provided they are officially recognized by the Government.
