The selection process involves inviting applications through wide media coverage and consultation with local authorities to ensure fairness and transparency. Criteria such as residency and leprosy patient status are considered during the application process. Are there any provisions for a periodic review of the beneficiaries' eligibility, and what factors are taken into account during such reviews?Yes, the Department conducts periodic reviews of beneficiaries' eligibility. Factors such as changes in health status or residency are taken into account during these reviews. Could you elaborate on the role of local authorities in the selection process and how their consultation is conducted?Local authorities play a crucial role in the selection process by providing input during consultations. Their knowledge of the local context ensures a more informed and effective selection process. Is there a grievance redressal mechanism in place for applicants who may face issues during the application or selection process?Yes, a grievance redressal mechanism is in place to address any issues applicants may face during the application or selection process.What measures are in place to ensure that the Pension Scheme for Leprosy Patients reaches the intended beneficiaries without any delays or disruptions?The Department monitors the progress and submits monthly reports to the government, ensuring a streamlined and efficient distribution process. Has there been any assessment or impact study conducted since the implementation of the scheme in 2015, and what were the findings, if available?As of now, there is no information available regarding any assessment or impact study conducted since the implementation of the scheme. Are there any plans to expand the scope of the scheme to include other categories of individuals in the future, and how would such decisions be made?The government reserves the right to make changes to the scheme as necessary, and any expansion of the scope would be decided based on the evolving needs and priorities. In case of modifications to the scheme, what channels of communication will be utilized to inform the public, and what considerations will be taken into account before implementing such changes?Communication channels may include official announcements, government websites, and local media. Considerations for modifications would involve assessing the impact on beneficiaries and ensuring transparency in the decision-making process. Why is the Permanent Resident of Tripura Certificate (PRTC) included in the list of mandatory documents, and how does it contribute to the scheme's objectives?The PRTC establishes the applicant's permanent residency in Tripura, aligning with the scheme's requirement that beneficiaries should be residents of the state.
